

Fig. 5

Twenty micrograms of pure plutonium hydroxide in capillary tube (magnified about 15-fold) isolated in September, 1942. The plutonium is the cloud-like mass at the bottom of the capillary "test tube".