

made to compare and contrast the commercial success of different cohorts of ERIP technologies over different time periods in order to assess longitudinal aspects of the Program and the technologies it has supported.