Dear Dr. Dittmar:

This is a letter to more or less formally state the request which I made to you last week. As I indicated then, I am not asking for any particular compound. What I would like is simply either what you have available immediately or what you can make in a reasonably short time. The types of compounds which would be represented would be like those in the following group:

The value of (n) may vary from zero to about three or four. I do not think that any larger molecules would be particularly useful. You can recognize from this list that a pair of terminal primary amino groups is necessary.

The exact nature of the center functional group may vary. I hope you may find it possible to supply us
