Los Alamos County Manhattan Project Historic Preservation Activities

- Historic Preservation Enabling Ordinance adopted by County Council (2007)

February 2008 – public hearings on draft Historic Preservation Plan. Plan being submitted to Planning & Zoning for inclusion into the County's comprehensive plan. Plan establishes priorities for preservation in the County.

Council approved the FY09 budget (starting July 1) that includes $150,000 for a study to determine space and functional needs for a county archive facility to include Historical Society archives and county records.

Survey of historically significant architectural features in the area around Fuller Lodge (including Bathtub Row).

Los Alamos County Activities (continued)

- Art in Public Places (APP) Board:
historical figures sculpture project

Concept has been adopted and project will start with statues of Oppenheimer and Groves. One possible location for the first two statues is at the entrance to Fuller Lodge and the Museum. (Concept photo is Oppie and Groves at Trinity Site ground zero.)

The APP Board, Fuller Lodge Historic District Advisory Board, Historical Society board and staff, and community volunteers will be working together on this project. Once the first two statues are contracted, the next step will be to develop a coordinated plan for additional figures and placements.

Community Priorities for Manhattan Project Historic Preservation

- Fuller Lodge Historic District Advisory Board Ad Hoc Manhattan Project National Historical Park Committee

Public hearings on Manhattan Project National Historical Park (November 2007) - report of ad hoc committee going to County Council for approval.

The MPNHP Ad Hoc committee recommends:

- Creating a centralized Manhattan Project National Historical Park Visitor Center in Los Alamos that includes National Park Service (NPS) staffing and interpretation. The NPS name will lend credibility and a national presence to the project.
- Developing the Visitor Center in conjunction with local partners. It would serve as a central clearing house, sending visitors out to Manhattan Project resources that exist within the community. These include the Los Alamos Historical Museum, the Bradbury Science Museum as well as other sites. This model is similar to the New Orleans Jazz National Historical Park.
- Working through the Energy Communities Alliance with groups in Hanford, WA; Oak Ridge, TN; and Dayton, OH, who are working on similar proposals for their communities, to ensure that the MPNHP has the same "feel" in each of its locations.
